Dear Colleague,

Many thanks for agreeing to review Mrs. Jones, who presented with discomfort on her right hip that has been ongoing for the past several months. Mrs. Jones is 75 years old and is generally fit, with a background of hypertension for which she takes the following medications:

- Ramipril 10 milligramme • Amlodipine 5 milligramme

She has an allergy to PENICILLIN.

Physical examination confirmed right-sided hip arthralgia, with pain noted. The hip joint exhibited a restricted range of movement, particularly in external rotation and abduction. The right lower limb showed no neurovascular compromises. An X-ray was arranged, which confirmed severe osteoarthritis in the right hip joint.

I would be grateful for your expert opinion on management for this pleasant lady.

Yours sincerely,
